

Sehwag bitten by tech bug?

Virender Sehwag, one of India's leading batsmen, is a self-confessed tech freak! When not scoring double centuries on the cricket field with his gloves and pads on, this father of a five-year-old boy, Aryaveer, is busy playing with his gadgets in the dressing room.

Virender is a huge fan of anything tech, whether it's phones, laptops or computers. He owns an iPad, an iPhone and an iPod without which he doesn't move out of his house.

He has admitted on UTV Interactive's Voice Blog that he loves watching movies and listening to music. He even told listeners that he has hard disks full of songs and movies.
